HOLY MASSES FOR THE DEPARTED SOULS

Fr. Roy John Elavumkal SMM

An individual may ask a priest to offer a Mass for several reasons: for example, in thanksgiving, for the intentions of another person (such as on a birthday), or, as is most common, for the repose of the soul of someone who has died. One must never forget the infinite graces that flow from the Sacrifice of the Mass which benefit one's soul (Pope Leo XIII in his encyclical "Mirae caritatis" (1902)). From the earliest days of the Christian religion, the Church has honoured with great respect the memory of the dead. The whole month of November is an interesting time of prayer in the Church as it is filled with many important feast days and it includes the days on which we commemorate all the saints and all the faithful departed.

Mass intentions: There is evidence that the Eucharist was offered for specific and general intentions in the early Church. Tertullian (c. 200) wrote that he offered "prayers and sacrifices" for a deceased on the anniversary of death. Saint Cyril of Jerusalem (d. 386) explained that both the living and dead are remembered at Mass and the Eucharistic sacrifice benefits sinners, both those in purgatory and those still on earth. This practice of intentions has continued throughout the ages. At each Mass, there are general intentions and specific intentions, which bear certain "fruit." The fruits for human beings are: impetratory (spiritual and temporal benefits), propitiatory (forgiveness of sins), and satisfactory (remission of temporal punishment). These fruits redound to the whole Church ("general"), to those participating in the Mass ("special"), to the priest himself ("personal"), and to those for whom the priest is offering the Mass ("ministerial").

General Intentions: Within the Eucharistic Prayer, which makes the sacrifice present by the power of the Holy Spirit and words of institution ("This is my Body... This is my Blood"), there are intercessory prayers. They always pray for the following: 1) all of the living and all of the faithful departed; 2) the bringing together in unity and growth in love for all who share in the Eucharistic Banquet; 3) the justification and sanctification of God's holy people. These intentions are offered by the priest. The faithful who are gathered are also able to offer intentions. Also, by our singing of the Memorial Acclamation "We proclaim your Death, O Lord" and the "Amen" at the end of the Eucharistic Prayer, we take part in the sacrifice as members of God's faithful as "kingdom priests" - at baptism, we were joined to Christ and anointed as priest, prophet, and king.

Specific Intentions: Historically, the faithful have given a monetary gift for a specific intention. This purpose was twofold: 1) the gift was the only source of income for the priest (in some poorer countries, it still is), and, 2) the person who requested the Mass, made a sacrifice of his own. This is referenced in the Code of Canon Law: "The Christian faithful who give an offering to apply the Mass for their intention contribute to the good of the Church and by that offering share its concern to support its ministers and works" (No.946). The offering of a specific intention most often is for someone who is deceased, but it can be for the living, or for a special need. The specific intention is offered by the priest. In the Roman Canon, there are two instances of the memento--Latin for "remember." You will hear the Priest pray twice (once before the consecration and once after): "Remember, Lord, your servants..." and then pause. It is at those moments when he calls to mind the specific intention(s). At the first memento, he prays for the living intentions and at the second memento he prays for the dead. Having a Mass offered for someone is an act of love because we should desire everybody's salvation. Masses can be offered for any soul, living or deceased. It is important to note that on each holyday of obligation (Sundays and "extra" ones like Christmas, All Saints, etc.), a pastor is required to offer at least one Mass pro populo (for the people of his parish and all their intentions whether they are at Mass or not!).

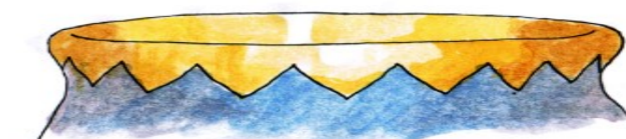

Indeed, the Church in its pilgrim members, from the very earliest days of the Christian religion, has honoured with great respect the memory of the dead; and "because it is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead that they may be loosed from their sins" (2 Mac 12, 46) she offers her suffrages for them. These consist, primarily, in the celebration of the holy sacrifice of the Eucharist, mercy, and the application of indulgences to the souls of the faithful departed' (Directory on Popular Piety and the Liturgy, 251).

Mark 12:38-44

In today's Gospel reading Jesus saw a poor woman putting everything she had into the Temple treasury. How much was it? Connect the dots to find out!

giving to god

In today's first reading we hear about a widow who was asked to give away all the food she had. In the Gospel Jesus points out a woman who put all her money into the Temple treasury.

It pleases God when He sees us sharing what we have with the poor and the Church. But do you think He wants us to give everything away?

Everything we have comes from God and He wants us to use it well. That's called being a good steward. It means using what we need for ourselves, but making sure that we always give to the Church and those in need.

What would a bad steward do?

How can you be a good steward with your money?
